01 / TUNAL GROUP × ROSHANAK SABERAN

Tunal Group, belief that opens doors

The collaboration, through the fighter's eyes.

Tunal Group entered Roshanak's journey through her manager, Baris Erdogan. She stresses the trust she received and the team's commitment to her career. She associates the collaboration with opportunities to fight in several countries and greater international exposure. That support matters to her as much as the opportunities: she values a team that believes in her potential. With Tunal, she wants to build a lasting international career and pursue her ambition of a world title.

02 / THE STORY

Shaped by sport. Determined to keep going.

Born and raised in Mashhad, where she still lives, Roshanak began gymnastics at three. Athletics, futsal, rugby, Kyokushin karate and kickboxing later enriched her sporting life. A graduate in sports science and physical education, she found in boxing a meeting point for her competitive drive and combat-sport experience.

She describes financial hardship, limited opportunities for female boxers and the pressures surrounding life in her country. Her family, faith and wish to show a way forward to women and girls in Iran sustain her determination. She wants to pass that confidence on, with a story that reaches beyond medals.

03 / THE JOURNEY

A multisport journey.

Roshanak reports Iranian national-team appearances in kickboxing, Kyokushin and rugby and international medals. She describes a 64-hour, 27-minute boxing challenge in 2020; independent certification has not been established here.

Professional since 2024 according to her questionnaire, she lists an OPBF Silver title and an Asian number-three ranking in 2026, not a verified current ranking. She describes an aggressive, technical and persistent style. At the time of the questionnaire, she has trained without a coach for several months.

> HER AMBITION
>
> Pursue a world title, become a coach and mentor young athletes. For Roshanak, a lasting legacy also means helping other women believe in their own journey.
